

PHI 201 : CONTEMPORARY MORAL ISSUES

This course explores the ethical dimensions of some of the more vital and vexing problems and issues encountered in modern society. These problems—faced by nearly everyone at one time or another (and in one form or another) in their lives—will be examined through the lens of philosophical reasoning and analysis.

3.000

Philosophy

GEF Humanities, major, minor, elective credit.