

SED 395 : INTRODUCTION TO LEARNING DISABILITIES

This course is a study of learning disabilities affecting the educational development of the exceptional student. Emphasis is on the definition, identification, classification, theories, and educational approaches to specific learning disabilities. This course includes a clinical. Offered Fall Term.

3.000

SED 300.

Special Education

Major credit.