

THR 102 : SCRIPT ANALYSIS

This course focuses on contemporary dramatic literature. Emphasis is placed on positioning scripts in historical and theoretical contexts including discourses on how representation makes and challenges identity in performance. Play scripts are analyzed as the foundation documents for the choices made by directors, designers, and actors in the creation of theatrical performances.

3.000

Theatre

Major, Minor, Elective credit.