

PHI 199H: FRESHMAN HONORS SEMINAR

A study of a selected subject within the discipline which will vary from term to term. Recent course offerings have included philosophy as a way of life and the philosophy of truth and lying. The course is designed to encourage student participation in the intellectual processes through class discussion, research, writing, special projects, problem solving, and evaluation and defense of positions. When the subject matter duplicates that of another course, credit toward graduation will be granted for only one of the courses. Offered periodically in rotation with seminars in other disciplines.
