

THR 221 : THEATRE PRACTICUM

A laboratory course in which students receive a component of experiential learning toward their degree. The work created by students enrolled in this course will both directly serve Theatre Converse's production and department needs and will offer the students a wide variety of production opportunities unavailable in the standard classroom, ranging from running mainstage shows to experiencing master-class type workshops, depending on the Theatrical Season calendar. This course is required for Theatre Majors and Musical Theatre Majors every Fall and Spring Term, thus it may/will be repeated for credit, as the content will change based on production needs.
